RIOTING RESUMED AT BAYONNE OIL PLANT

Three Men Shot, Two Fatally, in Assault by Strikers on Standard Oil Plant—Portions of the Works Set on Fire by Strikers and a Spectacular Blaze is Fought by the Firemen.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Bayonne, N. J., July 22.—Renewed rioting and incendiarism increased the seriousness of the situation in the strike at the Standard Oil plant, the largest in the world, today. Two men were shot in an attack made by 500 strikers and strike sympathizers on the wall protecting the company's property. One of the men was shot in the stomach and fatally hurt.

The assault of the mob led to a pitched battle. The assailants were armed with revolvers, but as they mounted the hill on which the wall is located, they were met with a volley from the repeating rifles of two hundred special guards intrenched behind the stone defense.

The mob wavered at the first volley as two men fell, but rallied and rushed forward to renew the attack. The Bayonne police were soon on the scene, but they were powerless to restore order.

Shortly before the rioting was renewed Chief of Police Wilson announced that state troops had been ordered out to meet the situation. This angered the strike sympathizers and they opened their attack with the intention of destroying the plant before troops could arrive.

Chief Wilson's announcement was unconfirmed by any of the aides of Sheriff Kinkead, who is the only officer who has the power to call for troops. Telephone inquiry at Trenton brought the information that nothing was known of troops having been ordered out, but it was stated that the commander of the state militia was rushing to the capital by automobile from Seagirt and that after he arrived troops might be ordered to Bayonne.

An hour after the strikers stormed the wall about the plant the battle was still raging. Members of the mob crawled from point to point, taking advantage of every irregularity of the ground that offered them protection.

The bullets from the rifles of the men guarding the plant swept all approaches. Newspaper reporters were driven to cover by the hail of lead that fell. The representative of the International News Service, who was in the water tower, was able to watch the fight between the guards and the mob, though occasionally a bullet came in his direction.

Two of the wounded men will die, it was later learned. They are John Sargensky and Tony Bednorski. A Greek Catholic Church in the line of fire was hit more than 50 times by bullets from the guards' rifles. A bystander was struck in the jaw by a spent bullet. He left the scene.

Appeals were sent to the Bayonne Hospital for ambulances but they were late in appearing. It was explained that the chauffeurs had refused to take the motor ambulances into the battle zone.

Standard Oil Company officials today ordered that all the 600 tanks in the local plant be emptied. This was due to fear that fire might cause an explosion. Work of emptying the tanks, containing 720,000,000 gallons of crude and refined oil, gasoline and naphtha began at once, the oil being piped to the plants at Brooklyn and Rahway.

Five fires have been set in the plant during the last 12 hours and its complete destruction is threatened by the riotous strike sympathizers.

Four of the fires gave the firemen hard work during the night, but they were finally controlled before they could reach any of the important tanks. The most dangerous blaze, however, attacked the operating plant, a story and a half building, shortly before 8 a. m. today.

This building contains the valves of the pipe lines through which all the oil of the plant passes. It is only 100 feet from a great naphtha tank. The entire fire department of Bayonne was called to the plant in an effort to keep the flames from the naphtha.

The incendiaries responsible for the fires are believed to be hiding within the plant and armed detectives are hunting for them. Three hundred agency detectives armed with rifles arrived at the plant shortly after midnight. They had orders to let no trespasser escape.

As they guard every entrance to the plant it is believed that the men who set the fires must have been inside the gates when the detectives arrived.

The fight against the flames was spectacular. The plant has an elaborate fire fighting apparatus, but it was useless because there were not enough employees to operate it. The Bayonne fire department had to carry on the entire contest, therefore. The firemen were hindered in every possible way by mobs of strike sympathizers who surrounded the plant. With more than 5,000 men on strike, their leaders declared today that all operations would have to stop, thus throwing 16,000 men out of work.

The strikers have flatly rejected the company's demand that they return to work before gaining consideration of their appeal for higher wages.

The company's officials assert that the plant will be run with strike-breakers and the strikers assert that if this is attempted, wholesale bloodshed will follow.

GRANITE WOMAN KILLS RATTLESNAKE

Granite, July 22.—The largest rattlesnake seen here this season was killed by Mrs. Myra Decker, who was picking huckleberries on Tuesday. A pet dog accompanied Mrs. Decker on the trip and it was the dog that first aroused the snake and attracted Mrs. Decker's attention. As soon as she discovered that it was a rattlesnake the dog was after. Mrs. Decker became fearful that the dog would be bitten. Seizing a stick she first struck the dog and drove it away from danger. Then she killed the snake. It was three feet and ten inches in length and had seven rattles. The picture shows Mrs. Decker in front of her home holding up the snake by a string attached to its head.

JERSEY TROOPS READY TO MOVE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Trenton, N. J., July 22.—Preparations have been made for the immediate movement of state troops to Bayonne to put down disorder in the strike of 5,000 employees of the Standard Oil Company. Adjutant General Sadler returned here today after a conference with Governor Fielder at Spring Lake relative to the Bayonne situation. The adjutant general stated that his department and that of the quartermaster general are in readiness for the entrainment of troops on short notice. State officials are opposed to sending National Guardsmen to Bayonne if the situation there can possibly be handled by the municipal and county authorities.

STRIKER FIRES AT BAYONNE SHERIFF

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Bayonne, N. J., July 22.—A striker at the Standard Oil Company's refining and storage plant made an effort to assassinate Sheriff Kinkead this afternoon. The striker fired point-blank at the official but missed. Immediately afterward Sheriff Kinkead called up Governor Fielder on the telephone and announced that the strike situation had gotten beyond his control.

Killed by an Automobile.

A valuable black dog owned by Patrick Ronan of Wall street, which like its owner was very popular, was run over by an automobile at the corner of Main and Wall streets this morning. The automobile did not stop. The dog howled pitifully for several minutes and then dragged itself to a clump of bushes in the rear of Miss Mary Van Leuven's residence, where it died in a few minutes.

NOTE TO GERMANY SENT TO BERLIN

Will be Made Public as Soon as Decoded and Presented by Ambassador Gerard, Which Will Probably be on Friday Morning.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 22.—The third note of the United States to Germany on the submarine warfare and freedom of the seas for Americans is on its way to Berlin.

State department officials today announced that the note was started on the cables at nine o'clock last night and it required from two to three hours to clear it from the department.

The text which consists of about 1,200 words was cabled to Copenhagen whence it will be relayed to Berlin.

Ambassador Gerard at Berlin will decode and translate the note to-night if the text be promptly sent forward from Copenhagen and will present it to Foreign Minister von Jagow tomorrow morning.

Publication of the text will be delayed until the ambassador has actually delivered the note to the Berlin government. It is believed, however, that the outline of the note published today in the American press accurately reflects its contents.

The American government's final word puts up to the Kaiser and his advisers the question as to whether the friendly relations between the two nations shall continue and serves notice that a repetition of an attack similar to that which destroyed the Lusitania or any violation of the rights of Americans at sea, would have to be regarded by the Washington administration as an "unfriendly act."

While the note does not so assert in blunt language, it carries the broad intimation that the U. S. thinks it useless to engage in an extended diplomatic argument and that there is no necessity for additional proposals and counter proposals on the matter. The side issues raised by Germany in its last reply are not held to be relevant to the great point at issue; that is, the right of Americans to use the seas with safety.

The effect of the note, therefore, is to discourage further quibbling through diplomatic channels and to say to Germany in substance: "We have stated our position. If you violate these principles you will be unfriendly, regardless of your assurances."

The American reply thus puts responsibility squarely up to the German government. By her acts Germany is to be judged. If Germany, heeding this final warning should cease her submarine warfare where it imperils American lives there will be no diplomatic breach between the two governments. If there should be another Lusitania case, even if it occurred here will not predict at this stage what the outcome would be.

The note was put into final shape by the President and Secretary Lansing, the latter having started drafting the new communication immediately following the cabinet meeting which approved the prospective reply. If the state department carries out its plans to dispatch the note without delay it should be in the hands of the Berlin government by Saturday. The text will be made public on its receipt by the German authorities, but the essential features of the reply now are fairly well understood in official quarters here.

As predicted the note has in it a tone of finality. It is designed to be the last word of the U. S. on the Lusitania disaster and the sort of submarine warfare which resulted in that disaster. Germany's counter suggestion of "marking" ships upon which Americans travel hereafter is understood, to have been rejected by the U. S. failing to see that it called upon to make such a bargain to safeguard its citizens.

Germany's plea that her submarine warfare is in retaliation against the British blockade and is held to have recognized the principles of the U. S. and the Kaiser's suggestion that this government ought to persuade Great Britain to lift the blockade, is declared not germane to the issue. While the United States is willing at any time to use its good offices to bring about better conditions for neutral shipping and neutral passengers on the high seas, it refuses to join in the German and British controversies. Further counter-proposals of this character are discouraged and the note endeavors to make it plain that it cannot take cognizance of alleged mitigating circumstances when German submarine commanders needlessly sacrifice innocent Americans.

It is pointed out that German submarines have shown it is possible for them to avoid sacrificing American lives and the demand that the Berlin foreign office disavow the Lusitania horror and make reparation, is reiterated.

This government, it is understood, stands firmly on the statement that neutrals may travel anywhere on non-belligerent vessels and that, even if these vessels carry contraband, they first must be searched and not destroyed with loss of neutral life.

With this reiteration of the principles of international law and humanity the United States rests her case, and puts clearly up to Germany the question: "What are you going to do about it?"

Ought to Be.

SAN MARINO RESERVE ARMY.

HERE IS A WHOLE RESERVE ARMY.

This picture shows the entire reserve army of the little republic of San Marino, located in the Italian Apennines on the Adriatic slope, on about the same meridian as is Rome. When Italy declared war, San Marino, the smallest republic in the world, numbering about 11,000 souls in all, threw in her lot with the allies. She sent her entire standing army of fifty men, with the exception of these two here, to the front. They were held as a reserve army to guard the home territory, which covers about 32 square miles. About nine hundred volunteers, however, are being drilled and will shortly join the Italian colors.

BATTLE LINE 60 MILES LONG

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, July 22.—Half a million Austro-Hungarian and Italian troops, massed on a front 60 miles long on the Isonzo river, are engaged in the most desperate battle of the Austro-Italian war.

Under the pressure of the Italian drive, and especially the violent artillery fire of the invaders, the Austrian lines are weakening and at several points between Tolmino and Dobrova the Austrians have evacuated trenches and have been driven from heights of strategic importance.

Gorizia is the prize for which the Italians are fighting but they are buying their successes with heavy loss of life. The Austrian losses likewise have been very heavy, although the Austrians have the advantage of strong defensive works.

It is estimated that within the past ten days the Austrians have lost 10,000 men in killed wounded and captured on the Isonzo front.

Archduke Eugene, commander in chief of the Austrian forces is calling vainly for reinforcements, according to advices from the front, but these cannot be furnished because all of the available Austro-Hungarian troops have been sent into the eastern theater of war to help the Germans in their drive against Warsaw.

The Italians also have the advantage in ammunition and big guns. Under the vigorous pressure of the invaders the Austrian line has been bent at three points: Near Tolmino, St. Lucas and St. Avre.

A bloody encounter took place at Monte San Michele, on the Isonzo front, under the sizzling rays of a broiling sun the Italians charged up the slopes of the mountain, facing the murderous fire of the Austrian defenders with the most noteworthy courage. Gaining the Austrian trenches the Italians attacked the defenders with the bayonet and hand to hand fighting followed. Finally the Austrians were driven out, but immediately launched the most violent counter-attacks and throughout the night the mountain valleys resounded with the roar of guns and was lighted up by the flash of burning gun powder.

The number of prisoners taken during the past four days by the Italians have been increased to more than 5,000.

That the Austrians are short of both food and ammunition was declared by the captives, who expressed the utmost satisfaction at their capture. They also declared that German army officers are being placed among the Austrian forces on the Italian front.

In the Carnic Alps, the artillery duels continue, with both sides using aeroplanes as range finders.

GERMANS 12 MILES FROM WARSAW

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, July 22.—The Austro-German army of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, one of the three that is taking part in the great Warsaw drive, is only 12 miles from the Polish capital.

Surging forward from Blonie the German legions rolled back the Russians for three miles, but the advanced columns of the Teutonic forces came under the fire of the big guns in the fortresses of Novo Georgievsk and are reported to have suffered considerably.

The bombardment of the Russian fortress by the Germans with big howitzers is going on night and day.

Of all the three armies taking part in the gigantic operations in Poland the best progress is being made by that of Gen. von Buelow which is advancing along the shores of the Baltic toward Riga. The feeling Russians are devastating the country but the Germans are well supplied with ammunition and provisions.

Having taken up strong positions along rivers and inside a semi-circle of fortresses composed of Ossowiec, Rozan, Poltusk, Novo Georgievsk and Ivangorod, the Russians are fighting fiercely to stem the Austro-German advance and to save their lines of communication.

Of all the fighting going forward in Poland the fiercest is in progress southeast of Warsaw where the troops under Field Marshal von Mackensen are struggling to gain position of the Lublin-Chelm railway. The Russians held strong positions and the Germans and Austrians have necessarily lost heavily, but victory in that quarter is worth a heavy price.

The weather in Poland is very hot and the soldiers are suffering badly from the heat.

An indication of the state of mind in Russia is shown by the fact that special religious services have been ordered throughout the empire and prayers are being said daily for a Russian victory.

GRANGE CIRCUS A GREAT SUCCESS

The amateur circus given Wednesday evening by Lake Katrine Grange for the purpose of raising funds with which to pay the mortgage on the Grange Hall, drew a record breaking crowd to the hall, which was filled to its capacity in spite of inclement weather, and all the numerous features which had been provided by the committee in charge of the affair were received with appreciative demonstrations by the large audience.

The circus was conducted by William R. Kraft as ringmaster and his effective work demonstrated ability which placed him in the same class with professional ringmasters and showed the wisdom of the committee in procuring his services.

The singing of Mrs. Wicks and Miss Helen Stern was thoroughly enjoyed and both ladies received enthusiastic applause upon their gifted and talented achievement. C. O. Davis and his little son, Emerson, performed some wonderful feats of strength which amazed the audience until the final scene when the heavy weights and thousand-pound balls were discovered to be made of paper. The bareback riding proved one of the most humorous events of the evening and elicited prolonged laughter and applause.

The saxophone solos by Harry Hymes of this city, as well as the child wonder pianist, tiny Katherine Kearney, were much enjoyed and their numbers were encored repeatedly. Too much praise cannot be given to the work of Ralph Mann, which was more professional than amateur, his piece de resistance being the balancing of a lighted lamp on the end of a horse whip held from his chin, which was worthy of unstinted praise. The quartet of Y. M. C. A. acrobats performed a number of clever stunts which displayed wonderful athletic training.

The hit of the evening was made by the four famous Piccoo Midgets, whose summer home is near Phoenicia. They gave their entire professional act, beginning with the Salvation Army act, continuing with their famous acrobatic work and concluding with a laugh-provoking three act boxing bout.

In addition to all this, Charles Chaplin, Si Perkins and wife and the Rural Comedian who delighted in showing his authority provoked great amusement.

Great credit is due to the committee under whose auspices the circus was given and to the thoroughness of whose efforts the Grange members and their friends were treated to one of the most enjoyable performances ever held in the Grange Hall.

Their brand of cigars, "In Cuba," has been among Fitzpatrick's well known brands for a number of years. William H. Grogan is counsel for Fitzpatrick & Draper; Frank W. Brooks is counsel for Mr. Walker.

New Lighthouse Burglarized.

It has been reported to the local police that some time this week thieves broke into the new lighthouse at the mouth of the Rondout creek and stole rubber boots and tools belonging to Lawrence Hannon, the plumber. Entrance to the new building must have been obtained by picking the lock of the door. It is said that this is not the first time that thieves have visited the building since it has been in the course of erection. Local talent is thought to have done the job.

Installing the New Light.

Government employers are busy this week installing the light in the new lighthouse at the mouth of the creek. It is expected that within a short time the building will be ready for use. The government boat is anchored off Kingston Point while the work of installing the light is underway.

The question that is agitating the minds of the taxpayers of School District No. 3 in Marbletown and it is likely that the question will not be definitely settled until the board of trustees receive a report from the state board of education at Albany. At the meeting held in May of the taxpayers of the district the proposition to build a new school was voted down. The question of a new school was raised when one of the residents of the district wrote a letter of complaint to the state board of education stating that the school house was not fit to house hogs and that the roof leaked. Last week an inspector from the state board visited the school which is closed for the summer vacation and made an inspection of the building. His report to the state board is being awaited by the local school board. One of the trustees of the school states that the building is in as good or better repair than when Judge Parker visited it many years ago and said it should never be torn down. The trustees have engaged Miss Ida DuBois of Sundown to teach school this fall. The enrollment of pupils does not exceed twenty.

BECKER'S COUNSEL SEEKING A STAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—The spectacular battle that was waged in 1906 in Chicago to save the life of Johann Hoch, the "Blue Beard," is from present indications, to have a duplicate in the struggle to save Charles Becker from electrocution for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Governor Whitman has received Becker's death house statement as the condemned man's counsel expected and the lawyers' sole hope now lies in the courts. They will make every possible effort to find a judge who will order a stay of the execution officially set for next Wednesday morning.

The same method was followed in the Hoch case and lawyers for the Chicago murderer were rushing from court to court seeking a stay when Hoch was hanged in the Cook county jail.

Governor Whitman's refusal to consider Becker's statement as basis for clemency, caused no surprise today. As soon as Becker's story was made public it was pointed out that a considerable part of the narrative was devoted to dragging in the names of men now dead. Governor Whitman says there is only one new thing in the statement—an allegation that Becker was warned that he was to be framed, this warning coming from a man now dead, but who was alive at the time of Becker's first trial and was not called for the defense.

Practice Sobriety

If thou well observe
The rule of Not Too Much; by temperance taught,

Due nourishment, not glutinous delight;
So may'st thou live, till, like ripe fruit, thou drop Into thy mother's lap. —Paradise Lost.

Sobriety is a cardinal virtue and should be practiced by all men. With the exception of the Prohibitionists (and their theory as well as their practice is decidedly intemperate), the vast majority of Americans are abstemious in their habits and use stimulants moderately. Men who cannot control their appetites should not imbibe at all. A brew like our

One of our dentists from here made a business trip to New Paltz Thursday. He is in the Dr. Ganse Dental Emporium here and trace the map we saw in a Highland paper. The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Codding entertained several young people of the church on the M. E. parsonage lawn on Friday afternoon, and everyone spent a delightful afternoon we were informed by the pastor. It was the junior choir of the M. E. Church of which he is the director.

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Lamoree have been spending some time in Baltimore, as guests of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Wilcox.

Mrs. Martha Smith of Vineyard avenue has guests from Brooklyn.

We hear the M. E. Sunday school are thinking of going to Bear Mountain. The date is not positive yet. It is thought all will enjoy the trip. Hard work to find a place to suit everyone.

OLIVERIA.

Oliveria, July 21.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church will hold a fair on the grounds of the property formerly owned by Mrs. C. Smith, near the Oliveria bridge, on the afternoon and evening of August 10 and 11.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 22, 1915.

When Bryan was making his famous treaties providing that no final action should be taken in any international dispute until a joint commission had discussed the matter for a year Germany refused to make any such bargain, and is probably sorry for it now. Great Britain and France consented. Consequently, no matter what the latter do, the United States can only talk about it for a year. England under the plea of military necessity might seize the Panama canal or absolutely stop our over-sea commerce, and we could only talk. If Germany had made the proposed treaty, she could now be sinking all of our ships on some pretext or other, and we could do nothing about it for twelve months or more. The Bryan plan is a splendid thing for aggressive, well-armed nations, since it acts as a gag and bonds on their victims while they rifle their pockets.

Colonel Roosevelt has been pouring hot shot into Wilson and Bryan and the other people who are trying to "Chinify" this country, by which he means making it so impotent in military power that any nation can treat it just as Japan is now treating China. This castigation is well-deserved but it should be remembered that the Colonel was President of this country for seven years, during which time he had things pretty much his own way. It must have been known to him that the United States was spending more money for military and naval purposes than any other nation with two exceptions, but without getting reasonable returns. During all those seven years either the Swiss or Belgian army could have landed here, and would have been able to whip us in a few days. It is not recorded that Roosevelt did anything to correct this scandalous condition of affairs. He did nothing whatever to stop the waste and worse than waste. For that matter neither did Taft, nor has Wilson done anything. In 1914 we spent $173,522,804 on our war department and $139,682,186 on our navy department, and yet we are said to be in a defenceless condition. In 1913 France spent on her army and navy $283,659,224, which is $30,000,000 less than we spent, yet she has a better navy and an army which has proved its ability to stand up against Germany. We want public men who will not advocate spending more money, but who will see that we get what we pay for.

That remarkable indifference to good taste and propriety which distinguishes the woman suffrage leaders was again exhibited last night when a delegation of "suffs" attended a boxing carnival in St. Nicholas Rink, New York City, and one of their number attempted to address the assembled toughs between bouts. She was greeted with hoots, catcalls and whistling, to say nothing of a few vulgar jests of the sort modest women never hear. Of course, no votes were made for the "cause," because the roughnecks who attend functions of this disreputable sort vote as "Murphy" tells them to anyway, and he will in due time give them explicit instructions. Our sympathy goes out to the unfortunate male wretches who are husbands and brothers of these crazy suffragettes. It is exasperating beyond measure to see one's women folk, whom one desires to idealize, rush out and wallow in mud and slime. There is no way to protect them. They cannot be spanked, locked in a dark room or made to go without their supper. No room can be found for all of them in insane asylums and female reformatories, although a percentage of them do eventually arrive in such places. The only remedy lies in the influence of other women of the sweet, old-fashioned kind.

Tears and prayers were unavailing and she remained in ignorance of the crime for which so grievous a penalty was exacted. The prison was below the level of the Neva, whose waters continually dashed up against its sides. So many years she had heard it and so little else reached her ears that when there came a time when the roar became violent she paid little heed until the thunder of cannon announced a flood.

Then the time grew short. She had been there twelve years, yet more only 32 then, and death seemed more

We have heard printers complain that their composing rooms lose money, which the pressroom has to make up, and we have heard hotel-keepers bemoan the fact that their dining rooms were an expense which room rents had to make up, but reasoning of this sort seems to be beneath the mental level of men competent to hold positions in large financial institutions.

AN OLD ROMANCE.

(By Our Woman Editor)

Alexandre Dumas, in his "Celebrated Crimes of the Russian Court," recalls a romance so heavily covered with woe that it will not slip memory at one's bidding.

Perhaps it is because these tragedies do cling so tenaciously to our dramatists and novelists serve us with so much of gloom that we are haunted by the morbid emotions springing from the carnival of unhappiness, when the brighter tales are forgotten.

It happened about the year 1764, beginning under the sunny skies of Italy, where the lovely Princess Helena Tarasenkoff had been transplanted from her Russian home. An ambitious, self-seeking Prince, an avowed foe of the Russians, discovered that the young queen of beauty was the daughter of the Empress Elizabeth of Russia, and soon began his plots and counter-plots to become her wedded husband. The Princess, all unaware of his schemes, saw in him only a courtier, handsome, young and attentive, and easily enough followed his leadership, unsuspecting the way she would go.

The story of his arduous courtship traveled to Russia, and reached the court where Empress Catherine II. was reigning. She saw through the veneer of his love protestations the deep-rooted ambition and determined to meet intrigue with intrigue.

The Empress had at her beck and call Prince Gregory Orloff, whose aspirations had hitherto made him a political rival of Helena's suitor, and he was easily persuaded to enlist himself in her services. So with an equipment of three ships he sailed for Italy ostensibly to purchase objects of art and to engage artists, but with a deeper purpose tucked away from the curious. There was an air of romance about him and smiles and favors were his for the asking, but it was upon his countrywoman, Princess Helena, that he showered his attentions and brought to bear his finest art as a wooer.

Indiscreetly he told her matters of which she was ignorant, pointed out to her the steps to the throne and ended by trying on her fair head an imperial Russian diadem, in his possession by some trick known only to himself. The tempter worked slowly but effectively, the diadem grew more lovely as Helena looked upon it, and with her splendid new hero at hand, the future seemed easy and bright.

Meanwhile merry-making was at its height, and in acknowledgment of all the galas, regattas and balls, Prince Orloff promised a glorious fete at which it was whispered that the fair Helena would be the queen of all. And she was.

Dumas likens the fete, which was the scene of the fete, to Cleopatra's galley, a blaze of brilliance and sparkling jewels at every turn, and the honors all went to the Princess. The merry-making lasted until dawn, when the guests, gay and bright, were rowed ashore. None was left but the Princess, and as she was about to step down the swinging steps they were swung away and she felt the ship already getting under way for sterner business than a fete. Her gay, attentive cavalier was left, but gay and attentive no longer. The transformation from lover to jailer was sudden, but complete. The Prince had sailed from the Russian court with strict orders and there was no latent tenderness to bid him supply her with food and water. She drank when it rained and ate any refuse she could find, when serving in the new capacity as scullion to the cook. The voyage was long, but she outlived its horrors and reached Cronstadt in the tattered remnants of her former splendor. There, under orders, she disembarked for a real prison, and the daughter of an Empress, half-clad and wretched, was flung in a damp dungeon. Dumas never skips details because they are harrowing, and the dark prison, her only home for 12 years, makes a grim picture.

Tears and prayers were unavailing and she remained in ignorance of the crime for which so grievous a penalty was exacted. The prison was below the level of the Neva, whose waters continually dashed up against its sides. So many years she had heard it and so little else reached her ears that when there came a time when the roar became violent she paid little heed until the thunder of cannon announced a flood.

Then the time grew short. She had been there twelve years, yet more only 32 then, and death seemed more fearful than all her sufferings. She called, and her cries were heard, but the only answer was the tumultuous waters. In the morning hours, just about the time when she awoke from her dream a dozen years ago, the water engulfed her and all was over.

Dumas colors his romances culled from the pages of history with too much realism for one's peace of mind. But they are pages from life, more's the pity.

FRANCES SHAFFER.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"My husband belongs to the Authors' brigade. They're getting along splendidly—in fact, I believe, they're going into a third edition."—Punch.

"What's the idea of two ambulances?" asked the stranger. "Oh, the second one picks up the victims of the first," replied the native. —Buffalo Express.

"Carl," said the teacher, "can you tell me what an inebriate is?" "Yes, ma'am," replied Carl. "It is an animal that does not have a backbone." —Judge.

Elevator Boy—"I told de boss to-day I wanted a raise." His Chum—"What did he say?" Elevator Boy—"He told me to get in an 'pull de lever.'"—Boston Transcript.

"I hear that beautiful actress wept copiously at the proper places during her trial." "Cry? She made the official courtier look like a rank amateur."—Louisville Courier Journal.

"Does your husband play cards for money?" "No," replied young Mrs. Torkins, thoughtfully; "I don't think Charlie plays for money. But all the people I play with him do."—Washington Star.

Rector—"The divorce laws are scandalous. They should be changed." Grass Widow—"I quite agree with you, Rector. It's a shame to be compelled to live so many months in those impossible places in order to acquire a legal residence."—Puck.

Mixed Up.

Evangeline Maude had got a new job. Tired of standing all day she threw up her situation as a shopgirl and managed to get work in a telephone exchange, although she knew nothing about it. The first call came through. "What number, please?" asked Evangeline M., sweetly. "Nine-nine-nine-nine!" came the reply. "Oh, I'm sorry," she breathed through the instrument; "but we're out of—er—I mean that nine-nine-nine is engaged. But can supply you with nine-nine-nine-eight or ten thousand, if you wish."—London Sketch.

Woman and Prophet.

E. Berry Wall, arbiter of taste, looked round the opera boxes at the Metropolitan Opera House one evening and said:

"I suppose, if a woman's shoulders are very beautiful, she has a right, a moral right, to wear a very décolleté gown. At the same time—"

Mr. Wall chuckled and shook his head.

"At the same time," he resumed, "the fashionable American woman of today reminds me of the prophet."

"How so?" said his interlocutor. "How so?"

"She hasn't much on 'er in her own country," Mr. Wall replied. —New York Globe.

Why They Fail.

George Ade, from the spacious windows of his club, nodded towards a thin, meek man who, carrying half a dozen packages, walked beside a large woman of haughty aspect. "Alas, poor Smith!" said Ade. "I knew him when his wit was wont to set the table in a roar. And now look at him now!" Mr. Ade shook his head sadly as the somewhat cowed, crushed figure of Mr. Smith vanished. Then he said: "All men are born free and equal, but the majority of them marry at the age of 25 or so."—London Opinion.

Perspiring School.

"Seymour Hicks is an English actor who has never visited America," said a Chicago manager. "Hicks is a comedian of the violent school. He's all over the stage at once. In his efforts to please he perspires in a way that is painful to witness."

"At a dinner I once gave at the Savoy, Sir Arthur Pinero made fun of Hicks for his strenuous methods; his lack of repose."

"Hicks, my boy," Pinero said, "I see you're got up on your bills. 'Doors open at eight.' Why don't you change it, Hicks, to 'Doors open at eight!'" —New York Telegraph.

Prohibition.

Condemning the high prices that food speculators have foisted on America since the beginning of the war, Thomas W. Lawson said:

HURLEY.

Hurley, July 22.—Last week the reporter for Hurley was made to say that the fishermen experts of the village had had but indifferent luck in their various experiences with the creek, generally very poor luck at that. This statement will have to be modified now as S. F. Ten Eyck brought home from the creek a long string of fish one day last week, which was not only a source of joy to him but of admiration of those who saw it. A medium sized pickerel was the smallest in weight and from that up the scale to a fine two pound bass. It was the "spinner" that did it.

ANOTHER AD SCHEME.

Albany Solicitor Goes at the Work Rather Informally.

For the past few days a man has been about town soliciting the local merchants for what purports to be a Catholic publication printed in Albany. According to the representation made by the solicitor the company he represents intends to issue 10,000 copies of the paper which is to be distributed free among the Catholics of Kingston. Tuesday the solicitor visited a downtown merchant and advanced his proposition and asked for a contribution. The merchant inquired as to the amount usually given and was told "Oh from $25 up." The merchant promptly informed the solicitor that there was "nothing doing" and the solicitor asked him how much he was willing to contribute and was informed that $5 was the limit. He was asked if he wished to pay the money at that time and replied not until he had seen the paper as he had been stung once on a labor paper that had never been issued. The solicitor showed him a list of the merchants who had agreed to contribute and would receive space in the publication and the merchant noticed that the list of contributors was made up of non-Catholics and becoming suspicious he called up Father Hickey and was informed that the solicitor had not seen the priest and received his endorsement. Later in the day the merchant got in touch with the solicitor and told him that Father Hickey would like to see him and was informed that the solicitor expected to call on Father Hickey and explain the proposition. The merchant later saw the solicitor go by his store on the trolley car in the direction of the rectory, but was informed later that Father Hickey had seen nothing of the solicitor. No complaints have been laid with the police by any of the local merchants. The proposition advanced by the solicitor may be a perfectly legitimate one but the fact that the solicitor had not first secured the endorsement of Father Hickey has led the merchant to have his doubts.

WOMEN COULD END WAR BY SEX STRIKE, SAYS MRS. WENT- WORTH.

Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—"Refuse to give life, if the men who are the heads of nations refuse to end wars, which take the lives of the women globe."

This epitomizes the call made to women by warring nations in an interview given by Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, internationally famous feminist.

"Women have the power to say whether peace or war shall prevail," said Mrs. Wentworth. "A sex strike of a million women would make war by the United States or any other country absolutely impossible. Women hold the gift of life in their hands, and they have the right to refuse the gift of life if it is to be sacrificed to the war god."

Mrs. Wentworth is the author of the playlet, "War Brides," which preached the doctrine of sex strike.

Goodyear Fortified Tires Cost Users $5,000,000 Less

Our last price reduction—made February 1st—will save Goodyear users about five million dollars this year. And that was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Yet Note This

Yet Goodyear Fortified Tires embody many extras. Five are costly features found in no other tire. The rest are found in few. If we omitted those extras, we could save on this year's probable output $1,635,000. We could add that to our profits, yet Goodyear tires would look as good as now.

This year's improvements alone will cost us $500,000 this year. All to give you extra wear. And we shall spend $100,000 on research this year to find more improvements still.

They Are Yours

These extras belong to you. They mean less rim-cuts, less blowouts, less loose tread. They mean more rubber, more fabric, more mileage, less trouble. Most tire users know that, so Goodyear tires far outsell any other.

Prove it yourself this summer. It will bring you tire contentment.

Any dealer, if you ask him, will supply you Goodyear tires.

Men are now adopting Goodyear tires faster than we can supply them. We have never seen anything like it.

GARDEN OF EDEN IN DUTCHESS COUNTY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Poughkeepsie, July 22.—Sheriff Hornbeck today ordered a raid upon a modern garden of Eden, situated at Roosevelt Point, three miles north of Poughkeepsie. This action was taken as the result of numerous complaints that two men and two women have been parading before the public gaze without even a fig leaf to protect them from the elements.

After a swim in the Hudson river the quartet frequently paraded along the New York Central tracks. This gave rise to fears on the part of the railway officials that the engineers might overlook signals or that some of the passengers might be decapitated as the result of hanging out of the windows of the cars.

Hunters in the woods around Roosevelt Point, have increased 100 per cent in the past few days.

Suicide by Drowning.

With her fourteen months old stepson tightly clasped in her arms, Mrs. Frank Kuehlwein, 61 years old, of No. 13 Fairview avenue, Middletown, jumped into the tannery pond near the Hillside cemetery in that city early Wednesday morning. When twenty minutes later her daughter started a search for her mother she found the body lying face down in the water. Five minutes later the bodies of the woman and child were recovered, life extinct in both. Family troubles are said to have caused the rash act. Her son, Leonard Freer, committed suicide six years ago in the back yard of the family home in Middletown.

Body Found at Malden.

The body of a drowned man was found floating, face downward, in the river off Malden at noon on Wednesday and towed to the steamboat dock. Brickyard employees at Malden discovered the body which was clothed in a black coat, white shirt and dark trousers. The man's hair was dark and he was of a large build. Corner E. A. Kelly was notified and directed Dr. Krom of Saugerties to act for him. The body was taken in charge by the Seamon Brothers Company and brought to their funeral chapel in Saugerties. It is said the man jumped from the steamer Clermont near Malden Sunday night.

REMINGTON STRIKE ENDS BY AGREEMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 22.—The strike of machinists and tool makers in the plants of the Remington Arms-U. M. C. and sub-contractors plants, is ended. The men will get an eight hour day with a readjustment of wages.

There will be no recognition of the union.

Except for some plants which had not previously shown an inclination to grant an eight hour day, and in these the men will get the eight hour day, the strike is a complete victory for the manufacturers.

There will be a readjustment of the wages. It will be equivalent to ten hours pay for eight hours work in most cases. Half holidays and minor details will be settled separately in each plant.

In some plants the men in gatherings have tentatively accepted the proposition. A formal acceptance is expected this afternoon.

The manufacturers' association will announce the settlement this afternoon.

The Remington Company, prepared for three days to put strike-breakers in the places of men who might walk out, sent word this morning to the foreman in charge:

"There is no use of staying here longer. The strike is over."

It is doubtful, it is stated, in the face of the new developments if President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and the other union heads will come to Bridgeport.

House Robbed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Diamond of 624 Broadway, who were out camping for a few days, discovered on returning home that some person or persons had entered their house and had taken a valuable gold watch and about $10 in money. They ransacked the dresser and buffet drawers and strewn the contents over the floor. The matter was reported to the police, who are thoroughly investigating the case. What seems queer about the case is that Mr. Diamond, being secretary of several organizations, had a large amount of money in his desk, which was overlooked by the thieves.

Too Nervous To Drive a Car?

That's too bad, old man, but you know nervousness is largely due to wrong habits of eating and drinking. If you would quit coffee and use Postum your nerves would steady up.

Postum tastes much like fine, mild Java but there's no drug in it—that's where it's got coffee beat a mile.

Sound advice.

More and more, people are waking up to the harmful effects of caffeine—the drug in coffee—a frequent cause of nervousness, heart flutter, dizziness, headache, and other ailments.

Instant Postum

s the soluble form of the original Postum Cereal. A evel teaspoonful of the crystalline powder in a cup of hot water makes a delicious food-drink instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance, but some prefer the original Postum Cereal which must be thoroughly boiled—15c and 25c packages. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

A change from coffee to Postum has been a good thing for thousands.

IN LETTERS OF FIRE AND WORDS THAT BURN

Instead of Being "Threatening" Denike's Letters to His Former "Lady Friend" Breathed Only Intense Love.

Heart throb was laid bare in recorder's court this morning when Recorder Andrew Lang read a "threatening" letter which Mrs. Tillie Masten of No. 47 Newkirk avenue claimed Edward Denike had written her stating that he would do her bodily harm. Back of the scene in recorder's court this morning lay the dying remains of romance spelled with a big "I," but to go back to the beginning it might be well to say that Denike has been serving three months in the county jail for stealing a bicycle which he sold for $2.50 and a drink. While serving his sentence he exchanged letters with Mrs. Masten, addressing her as Miss Tillie Masten, which is her maiden name. On June 28 the lady appeared before the recorder and swore out a warrant for Edward charging that he had threatened to kill her. The warrant issued but was not served as Edward's time at 1818 Wall street had not expired.

This morning Edward was discharged from custody and breathed the air of freedom for a few seconds when he was again placed under arrest by a policeman Ryan on a warrant issued on complaint of Mrs. Masten and Edward was escorted before the bar of justice.

In order to determine Edward's fate today an officer was sent and notified Mrs. Masten to appear and press the charge. She appeared later and Recorder Lang asked her if she had the "threatening" letter with her.

"I have," she replied producing the letter which she handed to the recorder.

"This is not a letter it's a book," remarked the recorder as he grasped the letter which contained about twenty pages in one hand and in order that Edward might hear what Tillie thought was a threat the recorder read the letter aloud for Denike's benefit. It must be confessed that Edward is a star at writing love letters and the recorder, who is not married, blushed slightly as he read the burning words that Edward had written to his erstwhile "lady friend." The letter stated that Edward still loved her and then in poetical language it related how he sat behind the bars and in a vision he could see himself and Tillie the day they first met and even the words they had exchanged at the time.

As the recorder read the letter through Edward fidgeted in his chair and hung his head while the blood crept to his cheeks and Tillie who sat opposite also blushed at the burning words that had been addressed to her. Finally the recorder reached the last page of the letter which he laid on the desk and turning to Tillie he said "There are no threats in that letter, it breathes only love and affection" and then addressing Edward the recorder informed him that he was discharged and advised him to keep away from Tillie and to try and obey the law in the future.

Edward has had rather a picturesque career during his brief lifetime. Some time ago he was arrested together with Arthur Ellsworth charged with stealing chickens. They were both sentenced to six months at 1818 Wall street. They had served but a brief period of their sentence when they made a daring escape from the county jail sliding down the elevator shaft in the jail and making their way through the cellar to freedom. They were later captured and sentenced to several months and again made their escape but were again recaptured. Denike's last visit at 1818 Wall was for three months for stealing a bicycle.

Edward lays his hard luck to the fact that he sometimes falls from the water wagon and when he does he always gets in trouble with the police.

Sylvester Changed His Mind.

Sylvester Van Derzee, the junk dealer of No. 51 South Pine street, who was arrested on Wednesday on the complaint of his wife and sentenced to pay $10 or serve ten days in the county jail, changed his mind after he had stated he would take the "ten days like a man" and while on his way to 1818 Wall street in the Black Maria he informed the driver that he would be "his friend for life" if the driver would drive him over to his house before taking him to the jail. Sylvester was conveyed to his home and secured the necessary cash and upon his arrival at the jail he paid his fine of $10 and was discharged.

Demanding a Jury Trial.

This morning in recorder's court when the case of John Avery charged with assaulting C. LeRoy Peck in a cafe on North Front street was called for trial former Recorder Deyo who appeared for Avery demanded a jury trial for his client and a jury was drawn and the trial set for the evening of August 9 at 7:30 o'clock. Milton O. Auchmoody appeared for Peck.

Foolish Pessimism.

There are so many of us who are inclined to look on the darkest side of things. It is rather hard to say that the majority of persons are pessimists, but it certainly seems to be true. Perhaps they do not really outnumber the optimists, but they talk so much of how hard luck is, and worry so constantly that they make a far wider impression than the optimists who go along the bright paths, serenely confident that the morrow will be just as bright as the present.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 22.—The man who listens to the pro and con arguments on golf and then tries to form a definite conclusion as to the good or harm in the game ultimately will be cast into a padded cell.

Golf, according to the pros, cures nervousness—and it creates nervousness, according to the con men. It's a great game for ministers—and it's the worst game a minister can play. It develops character—and it tears it down. It grows hair on bald heads—and it causes men to lose their hair. Golf is everything that is good—and golf is the superlative of wicked.

Is it any wonder that those who try to figure out the game and its benefits, or its harms, soon throw up the sponge and admit defeat, rather than go on figuring and so run the chance of confinement in the "nut" sanitariums?

The general opinion has been that ministers should fight shy of the golfing game. Golf develops many annoying situations. Golf causes a loss of temper and cuss words bring the only relief. If cussing is part of golf a minister shouldn't monkey around with golf balls, golf clubs and such. That's the common belief.

But now come on Rev. Daniel T. Denman, writing in the Golfers' Magazine, who says—and most emphatically says—that ministers should play golf.

"A minister is beset with danger," says Rev. Denman. "One of the greatest dangers he faces is that he will cease to be human unless he devotes a certain part of his time to some health-giving sport. Therefore, he should try golf."

"If a minister ceases being human—if he becomes all spiritual—he loses his hold on men, especially on young men. There is nothing that will keep a man human more than occasional engaging in sport. And there is no better sport than golf."

"A minister should play golf because it keeps him out in the open, because it gives him beneficial exercise and develops the ability to coordinate brain and muscle in doing a thing of skill. Golf reveals unsuspected resources; it cultivates the grace of body; it calls up courage and brings out the fighting spirit. It gives the minister a physical dominance which serves him well in the presence of men."

Quite a flock of medical gents have come right out in the open and said golf is such a trying game that it will put a man's nerves completely on the blink. They've said that many sweet tempered, nervous gents have taken up golf and after clinging to the game for a while have suffered ruined dispositions, contracted nerves and other nasty ailments such as loss of temper, fretfulness and inclination to use profanity upon the slightest provocation.

But a medical champion has arisen to defend the golfing game. He's Dr. Sheldon Levitt, who writes in the Golfers' Magazine that "Golf does not breed nervousness." The strangest part of Dr. Levitt's article is that he isn't a golfer.

"It is utter folly for people to say that golf causes neurasthenia," says Dr. Levitt. "It is almost the other way. Golf is one of the very greatest aids to curing persons with neurasthenic tendencies. I have recommended the game to scores of my patients suffering from nervous disorders, and never has golf failed to help them."

"A neurasthenic is one who has lost his mental and nervous balance. The essential elements of mind are intellect (reason) and emotion (feeling). The even balance of these two are maintained by will. Golf develops the will and in this way does much to automatically restore intellect and emotion to their former balance."

Dr. Levitt's article, in the main, was devoted to taking a pot shot at a golfer who wrote an anonymous article recently saying that golf, in which he has indulged for many years, has made him a nervous wreck.

Concerning him Dr. Levitt said: "It is quite evident from that man's article that he was a neurasthenic before he began golfing, and he has been aggravating his symptoms by moving in lines of small resistance, neglecting his serious duties and being led by his feelings. It is also evident that this man is one who shirks from everything calculated to develop in one a calm, deliberate, sensible action, a self reliance and a true mental resistance."
